

Personal assistance services through in-home providers can relieve you of much of the day-to-day physical and emotional support you provide to an aging person. Healthcare is personal, so why trust your care to an anonymous person?

You need one real person you can count on to create a trusted relationship to answer your questions, provide coaching and support, and guide you to better health..

Questions	Description
Who does the problem affect?	Living alone can be risky for aged individuals due to aging factors, prevailing ailments, or risk of falls and injuries. Often, senior citizens struggle while living alone and taking care of themselves. As they age, their dependency on daily living increases.
What are the boundaries of the problem?	There is no boundary restricted for this project, but this can be peculiarly used for seniors as they are completely dependent on assistance.
What is the issue?	Sometimes elderly people forget to take their medicine at the correct time. They also forget which medicine He / She should take at that particular time. And it is difficult for doctors/caretakers to monitor the patients around the clock
When does the issue occur?	Issues occur when the seniors intake many medicines and timely consumption of those medicines are severely important.
Only in certain locations, processes, products, etc?	This is a Global issue and every individual needs to take responsibility to take care of seniors.
Why is it important that we fix the problem?	Personal assistants do not administer or manage medications, but they can remind seniors to take medicines when the time comes. Since many elderly forget to take medicines—or wind up taking double or triple doses—having someone there to remind them and monitor medications can prove invaluable.
